

The Face of
*Making a Difference,
One Child at a Time*

Executive Director Libby Dubner King Westmoreland Children's Center

I believe we make a difference in each child that comes through WCC by laying the foundation for a lifelong love of learning. Children are playful by nature. Play builds a strong sense of self-confidence. It's especially critical for preschoolers to develop naturally in their play. Our preschool prepares children to work with others cooperatively and approach learning with joy, but also nurtures happier people who will not lose their love of play. This is why our programs are designed to inspire children to learn through play and the thrill of discovery. Classrooms are warm, nurturing and exciting, and that makes learning fun. I always tell families that is the process – not the product. This is why we make a difference, one child at a time.
